OUR WASHINGTON LETTER
FROM OUR REGULAR CORRESPONDENT
WASHINGTON D C Nov 31 1865

A large number of Congressmen have already arrived here but many more will get in between this and Saturday night Of course I do not write this as a bit of news to Oregon for the lightning will state the fact and you will have it before this letter is one day older Every hour nearer you than it is at the present moment I am writing of Washington as it is all the present winter and so I allude to the incoming members and the tone past in a tempest which always precedes the organization of the House There is however much less excitement this year than usual and principally because there is very little controversy respecting the prominent officers of the House Mr Colfax is here and will take his old place of residence on Four and a half street, where he will receive his friends in his old style During the past week his views upon the political structure of the country have been widely circulated over the country and so far as I can learn they have met with a general approval He has good reasons for feeling a little elation at the success of his speech

The President read portions of his message to the Cabinet on Friday last It was observed that the document was printed For the convenience of the President his MSS were taken over to the printing office of the Treasury Department and put in type there It is usually so to the government printing office but it will not be this year The President places entire confidence in the Superintendent of the Printing Bureau and his workmen, who have had the message in their hands for more than a week, and at a time when the curiosity to see it intense in all parts of the country and some of the speculators of New York would quickly give $10 000 for an advance copy

This reminds me to notice an occurrence at the State Department since my last letter A newspaper correspondent said to me of the New York Herald) while in the State Department one day possessed himself of contraband information—the appointment of Mr Depew of New York as Minister to Japan—a brief of the appointment lay on the table of one of the clerks and it is claimed that the correspondent copied it without leave The correspondent says it was given to him by the clerk in charge However this may be Mr Seward issued an order prohibiting any newspaper reporter to enter his Department without invitation If they were all high minded men it would be a very long time before one of them would give him an opportunity to turn them out. They complain of his action because his order confines to the innocent with the guilty They ask why did he not shut his doors to the alleged thief and allow honest men their usual privileges? There are newspaper men in Washington who will resort to a dirty trick to obtain a little advance news but the honorable members of the profession should not be punished for their sins There are men who attempt (so I am told) to bribe poor ill-paid clerks who sneak behind the backs of officials and try to obtain by pocketing documents over the shoulders of men who are too busy to protect themselves against such dastardly thieves During the war suspicion was often excited against certain clerks in the War Department because one or two newspapers men obtained war news from that department in advance of all others which could not have been done by honest enterprise alone—but it was impossible to fix upon the guilty persons and the search was given over

Mr Seward if he wants the friendship of the newspaper men should repress his insulting order—insulting certainly to all honorable newspaper correspondents He has a right and to carry under the most favorable circumstances, and should not wantonly offend the news writers

Stories have been circulating about Washington of late that the President has been offering money paid out of the Treasury to rebels for damages inflicted during the war It was alleged that over $12 000 was paid to Mrs Washington—the widow of Louis Washington who lived not far away from Harper's Ferry It will be remembered that he was taken prisoner by John Brown at the time of his raid on the Ferry Instead of any money being paid Mrs Washington for war damages I learn at the Treasury Department that nearly two years ago her household effects were taken by some army officers and brought to Washington, where they were sold The money amounting to $1 150 was placed in the Treasury The President ordered this money to be refunded, and the entire story about rebel damages grew out of this fact

P McD Collins of the Overland European Telegraph had an interview with the President a few days ago The President spoke very highly of this great enterprise and assured him that it would receive every aid from the Government that is compatible with justice and the economical administration of affairs Russia offers a war steamer to half lay the cable across the Straits and this Government could not well do less than offer the use of another which the Secretary of the Navy has done. It would not be surprising if Congress were called upon to give to the Company a little aid in case upon the completion of the line, but perhaps not The idea of such compensation was abandoned last winter as the charter could not have got through in that shape

The rebel ram—the Stonewall—which lies in the Potomac attracts very great attention here It is a most formidable vessel and after one has seen it it is impossible to blame Commodore Craven of the Ageria for not accepting the challenge of the rebel commander to fight with him The Stonewall you will remember is iron clad and the Niagara is a wooden vessel The trial of Com Craven is going on but the Court has taken a good view of the Stonewall and his chances of acquittal are much greater since they have Prominent members of the Cabinet went down on Saturday to take a look at the great rebel ram Craven has since been dismissed from the service Pshaw!

The Southern States are proceeding very slowly in the business of restoring their relations to the Union They well know that the President expects of them but are slow to comply with his excellent advice Governor Marvin of Florida comes nearer to the mark than any other of the Provisional Governors and Governor Parsons of Alabama comes next Those two States will soon give the freedmen the protection that they need and if they do it will not be very long before their Representatives are admitted to seats in Congress Texas sends Representatives will be among the first admitted Seats judging by the feeling toward that State in Republican circles Go Schenck's plan of ins

OFFICIAL PAPER OF THE STATE

SATURDAY MORNING, JANUARY 6, 1866

The New State

Colorado asks to be admitted as thirty seventh in the list of States which compose the Federal Union She has done all that is required by State preparatory to admission and now having made preliminary arrangements for her government under the Union, she comes asking Congress to ratify the work and to seal the bond which shall unite her destinies with those of the other members of the Republic

The idea which once prevailed that a Territory should have a population sufficiently large to give it the importance and dignity of a State, before it should be admitted to equal honors with the other members of the Union, has of late years been practically lost sight of. It has been the fashion to admit into the Union any community that might wish to come as a State, no matter how small its population, or how little developed its resources In every Territory there is a class of men who are anxious to have a State Government because they expect their changes for personal advancement to be bettered by the change. The formation of a State Government is a matter that usually begins to be agitated from the time when the first coterie of officials reaches a newly formed Territory Under their advice, the infant community soon commences to show as much restiveness under Federal restraint, (as the fostering care of the Government is often called,) as many a minor exhibits while chafing under the control of parental authority.

In the late election in Colorado a trifle over 5,000 votes were polled It is fair to presume that as the election was an important one, the votes were all called out The people were almost evenly divided on the question of adopting the State Constitution—it being carried in the affirmative by the slender majority of one hundred and forty-two votes. Colorado cannot now have a population of more than thirty thousand persons, and of these a considerable part are of the mongrel races. Several States have been admitted into the Union, whose population was quite small, but we believe eigh one of them had a greater number of inhabitants at the time of admission than Colorado now contains.

If the people of a Territory, independent of the dictation of office seekers, would consider dispassionately the whole matter of making the change from a Territorial to a State Government, they would wait until they had grown to the stature of a State, or at least until they could take care of their own local interests without feeling the burden before assuming their new relations.

If an extensive area is what constitutes a State, Colorado is sufficiently large to make her equal to the giv 1 S— The Stat— contains of 110 000 square miles; being just double the size of Illinois. But the greater part of this vast body of land is mountains and d— ts. Large tracts of it—as well as of Oregon are quite valueless for any purpose yet known. That the natural resources of a State may not be in comparison with or in proportion to its area, may be verified by citing instances where some of our States and Territories are poorer, because larger, than others Colorado is one of those whose large size is a detriment. Were her boundaries extended so as to include the whole of the great American desert, the acquisition would be a loss. Sands and rocks and uninhabitable mountains will not always make a State.

But Colorado is rich in the precious metals, and on these must her future prosperity and greatness will depend. The Rocky Mountain chain, known to contain gold and silver throughout its whole course, traverses the new State. Pioneer mines have long been worked there, and of late the quartz lodges of that region are attracting much attention. The great expense of transportation is a most serious hindrance to Colorado preventing as it does the introduction of machinery, and thus delaying the development of the mines.

Colorado, though seeking admission as a State, is not so populous or so wealthy as Montana or Idaho; both of which Territories seem to be content for the present to remain under the tutelage of the Government. But very soon—probably by next year—both Montana and Idaho will ask to be enrolled among the sisterhood of States Of course the Territories will be admitted as fast as they apply. It is of less importance, however, that they should become States than that they should grow in wealth, increase in all the elements of material prosperity and pronounce for, and fasten upon the principles which the rising intelligence of the age demands

A Sudden Acclimation.

There was a day when the advocates of slavery claimed that it would be forever impossible for white men to labor at the South. The climate was such that none but the races who were indigenous, so to say, to tropical countries, could endure the toil of the sugar plantation and the cotton field. The heat of summer was so intense that white men—the chivalry—the dominant race—could not breathe except when surrounded with refrigerators and soothed by the cooling drinks which every 'gentleman" had learned to appreciate. Did any incredulous Northern man venture an opinion that white men could labor in Southern latitudes with scarcely more inconvenience than is experienced elsewhere the owner of slaves would flatly tell him that he knew not what he was talking of; and by this ex-cathedra manner of speaking would silence all opposition on the part of those who could see no argument for slavery in the pretended fact that none but negroes could work in Southern fields

But slavery is now abolished, compulsory labor is at an end, and with the destruction of the slave system we also find an end of the pretence that white men cannot labor in the South That fallacy is exploded. That plea has been abandoned. We now find those who a few years ago so stoutly maintained it, admitting its falsity They want white men to work for them They are offering every inducement for white labor. Laborers are invited from Europe—from the North—from all places except those inhabited exclusively by the blacks Negroes are not wanted White labor, they tell us, is to be the rule

So passes away with slavery the false arguments which were used as props to sustain it.

SIGNIFICANT FIGURES AND MEASUREMENTS.—What Harper's Monthly has done, during the past fifteen years, to diffuse knowledge, literature and entertainment for the million, will be partially understood by the following statements, taken from the article in the December number on "The Making of the Magazine"—an article every body should read

The magazine was successful from the outset Of the first number 7,500 copies were at first printed. Within six months the number had reached 50 000 The average circulation taking all the numbers from the first, has been somewhat more than 110 000—in all, fully twenty and a quarter million copies They would weigh more than 5,000 tons, or 2,000 pounds. They would measure nearly 2,000 cords They would build a solid wall ten feet high, two feet thick, and almost two and a half miles long They would make a solid pyramid one hundred feet square at the base, and more than seventy five feet high The numbers laid side by side would cover 208 acres, or make a pavement two and a half feet wide and nearly sixty miles long The separate sheets would cover a path two and a half feet broad and 4 400 miles long. They would carpet almost 19,000 acres, and as each sheet is printed on both sides, they contain more than 87 000 acres of printing.

NEW YORK, Jan 2—A Washington special dispatch says that General Spinner has given his opinion that the acts of disbursing officers of the United States with the National Banks, designated Pay Department officers are subjected like others to taxation on the ground that the banks have the benefit of such deposits, the same as individual deposits

Bounty Claims

NEW YORK, Jan 2—The Second Comptroller announces that the advertisements of claim agents that soldiers and others than veterans are entitled to extra bounties are untrue He adds No extra bounties have been authorized, nor can they be without further legislation It is very important that soldiers should not part with their discharge papers

The Pension Bureau—Miscellaneous.

NEW YORK Jan 2—The World's Washington special correspondent says There is a steady falling off in applications for pensions for invalids There were about 2 000 of each month being a decline of two per cent per month for a few months past When the army disbanded last summer, applications for three or four months ranged from 4 000 to 6 000

The World's dispatch says J W Webb is recovering

The Herald's Washington special says A convention of Collectors is to meet at Washington on the 8th inst to decide upon some necessary changes in the existing customs

It is reported that a military board has been constituted by the War Department to investigate certain transactions of Government disbursing officers in Kansas, and that frauds on the public treasury will be unearthed. Certain prominent civil authorities are said to be identified with those speculations

The records of the Provost Marshal at Washington show that since June 1863, to the present time, some 18 000 prisoners have been reported at that office. Out of this number the records of the Old Capitol Prison show that it housed 35 000 prisoners—near 3,000 real and fancied offenders against the State and 20,000 deserters and bounty jumpers

The contemplated increase of the regular army grows daily in favor here as of those who three months ago considered 75 000 too large, a number now favor augmenting it to nearly twice that force The military committee will probably introduce a bill for its increase early next week

All the passengers and 16 of the crew were lost Loss of vessel and cargo feet up $400,000

The Commercial says the stock market has shown considerable activity in certain special circles apparently in anticipation of an active speculation next week.

The rice market at present, is under control of a number of sanguine firms, who, so long as the money market favors will speedily push up quotations

Greenbacks continue very active under stimulus of yesterday's foreign news

Considerable number of foreign orders for old 5 20's were executed yesterday and this morning, and foreign bankers are buying The improved standing of the 5 20's has resulted from the reception of the President's message and confidence in the Government. It is supposed that in consequence of the foreign demand from Frankfort and London, at the morning board 6's of 1881 rose three-eighths, and old 5-30's one quarter. Older securities were also steady at the closing figures of yesterday

Gold is decidedly weak A considerable amount has been sold short 7 per cent interest is paid for gold to cover contracts It is believed the increased shipments of 5 20's abroad and the payment of $23,000 of gold interest falling due on the 1st of January combine to produce the prevailing bearish feeling The prices this morning have averaged 140 during the morning Money is very abundant Brokers get all they require at two per cent., and offers of considerable sums, until Thursday, have been made at five per cent, to save the balance from being idle two days There is less prime paper sold at high rates, eight per cent being now the maximum rate and seven per cent the minimum. Foreign exchange is merely nominal.

Several hundred miles of the core or interior portion of the new Atlantic telegraph cable are completed

One of the evening papers has a story that a Washington auctioneer has been buying up firearms for Fenians and had partially delivered an invoice of weapons when the municipal authorities embarrassed the further completion of the contract by interposing a quo warranto

A gentleman who has traveled from Mexico to Vera Cruz says the road is infested with such cutthroats that a force of guerillas fifteen are met to rule account until after those men if a man is caught robbing or even if he looks suspicious he is promptly strung up by the roads is The Lieutenants are of course judge jury and executioners As a consequence there is a reign of terror over Mexico except on the Rio Grande

The Paris correspondent of the Liverpool Daily Journal says The visit of the Yankee General Schofield to Europe has been a thoroughly effective one that we have thus exposed its real motive which is nothing less than the purchase of one of the islands in Archipelago, named Spanish the most important It is admirably situated for the surveillance of both the Eastern and Asiatic coasts affording every facility for the formation of depots and dock yards beneath the American flag The discovery of the proposed arrangement with the American Government has given a terrible surprise, as it is considered a realization of the famous threat which at one time appeared nothing but Yankee bombast The Madrid correspondent of the London Times says The health of the Queen is declining daily and it is thought she will soon be unable to attend to the duties of the throne

South Carolina

NEW YORK, Jan 1—Gov Orr of South Carolina, issued on Monday last a proclamation announcing his assumption of the duties of his office by permission of President Johnson In instructing the citizens in regard to the new commonwealth representatives he informs them though the civil government is restored the habeas corpus is still suspended in the State and the military is therefore paramount in all matters of which it has special supervision, among which is the adjudication of all controversies in which freedmen are interested He gives both blacks and whites good advice telling the former that on their own sobriety, industry, honesty and good character alone must they now depend for their happiness counselling toward them on the part of the latter, kindness and justice

The Condition of Ohio

CINCINNATI, Jan 1—The Ohio Legislature assembled to day. Governor Anderson's message is lengthy The State is represented to be in a flourishing condition The total receipts of the State during the year were $78,019,000, against $8 960 000 in 1864 The disbursements were $13 405 000, against $56,500,000 the previous year The total funded debt of the State is $12,900 000 against $13,560,000 last year The Governor urges Legislature for protection of the lives and property and other rights of people from encroachments and neglects of the railroad corporations of the State. He argues at length against the Monroe doctrine and interference with Maximilian's affairs He says "What the Monroe doctrine exactly is we have never agreed among ourselves of its origin is doubtful, its purpose uncertainty and its measures thus they unsettled Mexico has never been and never can be a republic unless her people will act in accordance with the United States and be born again and of entirely different parentage She, with all her sister republics of South America, has been from the beginning unquestionably the most violent bloody and incendiary anarchy She has continually injured all nations with which she has held communication has ruthlessly ruined and oppressed her people and the government has brought disgrace alike on the sacred name of republican liberty and human nature" The Governor is opposed to going to war with France, or menacing or bullying her in behalf of Mexico

THE CASE OF GEN BAKER.—The Washington Chronicle of November 21st has an article in defence of Gen L C Baker, Chief Detective of the War Department, who is under indictment on several criminal charges. The Chronicle says

Notwithstanding the terrible outcry against him, he still has the confidence of the department to which he is attached Gen Baker does not fail in all instances to report his acts to his superior officer. This he is bound to do, and we are sure the War Department, which is better advised of all the facts than any of Gen Baker's traducers can be, has not yet found occasion to censure him for any of those things which have been so magnified and distorted by a portion of the press

The Chronicle also says Gen Baker has not committed a single person to the Old Capital Prison for more than two years, and that he has not been authorized to do so since the latter part of 1863.

A WASHINGTON HOAX.—A sell was perpetrated upon the newspaper fraternity and many others in Washington, November 30th, by the appearance of a neatly bound, cut and trimmed pamphlet, with an appropriate title page, purporting to be the report of the Secretary of the Treasury upon the finances of the country for 1865 There were but two copies extant, and fabulous prices were offered for these by persons in the interest of the New York operators The fortunate possessor was dogged and importuned for private interviews with wine and money, till it finally leaked out that the printed title sheet covered nothing more than a couple of quires of blank paper stitched and trimmed for samples. The anxiety to get hold of advance information as to the Secretary's views about the financial future is feverish, notwithstanding he distinctly avows that his mind has undergone no marked change since the Fort Wayne speech. A sensation will be created by certain statements and recommendations from the Commissioner of Internal Revenue.

ADDITIONAL NEWS BY TELEGRAPH

General News

NEW YORK, Jan. 1.—B. B. Strahan has been appointed Inspector of the Second District and Superintendent of Repairs and Supplies for the United States Revenue and Marine Service at this port since the resignation of Dimitri Gatti.

A Washington dispatch says: A rumor is generally credited there that within two or three weeks the President will issue a proclamation declaring that the work of reconstructing the Union is complete.

Many Members of Congress have gone to Baltimore to attend the funeral of Henry Winter Davis.

Thirty-three applicants for places in the Treasury Department were filed last week, but until Cushing now appointments Secretary McCulloch instantly refusing the list.

BALTIMORE, Jan. 1.—The colored people are assembling to-day to celebrate their deliverance from slavery. The usual addresses will be made.

NEW YORK, Jan. 2.—A dispatch from Brazil says: The Commissioners from the South, appointed to proceed to Brazil and examine its eligibility for settlement, are dissatisfied. The rebels returned to Rio Janeiro early in December from their expedition up the southern provinces of the Empire. They were sanguine regarding the resources and capabilities of the country for settlement, but there was some difficulty in the way as the Brazilians were not favorably disposed toward the movement.

Dates of the 19th from the seat of war say: In Paraguay an army which had been concentrating at Corrientes returned further into the interior, among the mountains where capture was difficult. Their new position is behind the defences at Humaita, and is said to be very strong. The allied army followed the retreating forces and were preparing to make an attack. Reinforcements were being pushed forward.

Letters from Charleston say: The regulations for contracting freedmen are nearly completed. A copy of the contract requires that within two or three days the President will issue a proclamation declaring that the work of reconstruction is complete.

The freedmen are responsible for property entrusted to their care and are expected to give evidence of their fidelity in performance of their duties.

Late advices from Prussia say that an expedition is being organized in Prussia for another expedition to the Arctic ocean, with the design of getting as near as possible to the north pole. The ships are to be provisioned for three years. Their crews will consist of scientific men from the Prussian school.

BALTIMORE, Jan. 2.—The funeral of Hon. Henry Winter Davis, this morning was largely attended. Every mark of respect was shown the distinguished deceased.

NEW YORK, Jan. 2.—Toronto dispatches say that the United States Consul General Thurston to-day received instructions from his government to prohibit the entry of any more cattle into the United States from Canada.

NEW YORK, Jan. 1.—It was erroneously stated that the British and French Governments had arrived at an understanding in regard to Mexican affairs. It is known however that Maximilian has not met his engagements with Napoleon for keeping French troops in Mexico and the French Emperor is not willing to support the military force at his own expense.

The U. S. steamers Vanderbilt and Tuscarora and the monitor Monadnock under command of Rogers, were dispatched from Cayenne on the 27th of Nov. for the Pacific. The Monadnock be- haved beautifully at sea.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 2.—It is a subject of much comment to-day that at the President's reception yesterday, none of the diplomatic corps recognized or spoke to the Mexican minister, Senor Romero. He was cordially received by the President, but remained only a few minutes in the reception hall.

Major Durbank, Indian Commissioner and a delegation of five Crow Indians and three Sioux Indians arrived this evening from Nebraska. They are here for the purpose of consultation as to the terms of the treaty of 1851, and for the purpose of having it renewed.

GOV. LYON'S MESSAGE.—We republish the following paragraphs from the message of Governor Lyon of Idaho:

THE MINES OF IDAHO

The following localities in good paying placer diggings have been wrought with success the past year and in a majority of them gold and silver bearing quartz ledges are being developed: Elk City, Oro Fino, Clearwater Station, Salmon River, Miller's Camp, Warren's Diggings, Meadow Creek, Snake River bars, Gold Bork on the Payette, Boise Basin—embracing Pioneerville, Centerville, Pioneer City, Idaho City, Buena Vista Bar and Moorestown, the Owyhee District—embracing Bonnoville, Ruby and Silver Cities, War Eagle and Sterling Mountains, Flint, Marmoth and Steele, Volcano District, with Wood River while South Boise, embracing Esmeralda, Rocky Bar, Red Warrior, Bear Creek, Elk Creek, Yuba Silver Mountain and Silver Creek attract much attention from such new development. New mines on Bear River, and in the Goose Creek Mountains, also in the vicinity of Lemhi and Soda Springs, have been reported from authorities entitled to confidence. All legislation should be carefully moulded to invite capital, and the great or the inducements held out the more rapidly will our population be increased, and the greater the people's prosperity. Here the emigrant will find the highest price paid for his labor, and here the farmer will find the highest price known for his produce. Valley lands of great fertility await the grain grower and boundless fields of the best pasturage for the herder and grazer. A healthy climate, an exhilarating atmosphere with a warm welcome, to all those who come to make this their home.

RAILROAD FROM SALT LAKE TO THE COLUMBIA RIVER.

After a careful series of soundings at low water, it has been found that the Snake or Shoshone river can be made navigable at a nominal expense from Old's Ferry to Salmon Falls, a distance of two hundred and fifty miles, thus making an important link in the chain of railroad communication from the north end of Great Salt Lake to Walla Walla, over the Grand Ronde Valley and Walla Walla, over the lowest pass in the Rocky Mountains. With about one hundred miles of navigation on Great Salt Lake we have less than four hundred miles of railroad to build to render a branch Pacific railroad a success, whose entrepot will be Portland and its terminus Great Salt Lake City. This route is some five hundred miles nearer China and Japan than the trunk route through Nevada and California, and by your endorsement of the state of facts in a proper way, by memorial, it cannot fail to attract favorably the attention of Congress that we may have the same chartered rights and Government bounty to induce its construction that has been given to other measures of a similar character. Thus the Columbia river, the natural avenue of commerce, would attract the trade of the orient as well as the occident and form the last great link in this truly national highway. Oregon as well as the Territories of Montana and Washington will be largely the gainers by its progress and completion.

Brigham Young has had a new revelation. He says it is "the will of God that the sisters should make their own bonnets and hats for themselves and their families from straw and other materials raised in the Utah mountains. The next revelation will probably dictate the style in which they are to be made and worn. It is said that Brigham Young has a large lot of rye straw for sale on lots to suit purchasers," which perhaps accounts for the straw hat revelation.

SOUTHERN DEFENCE.—The Macon (Ga.) Journal, in an able and moderate leader, defends and justifies the ex-rebels against the charges of hypocrisy disloyalty, etc., frequently brought against them Here is a specimen of its line of argument

It is objected that the South votes for her old political and military leaders, who, nevertheless, occupy the position we have stated And ought it to be expected that the mere fact of our subjugation should change the personal partialities of the people? It is said that we do not go heartily and swiftly into compliance with the demands of the Federal Government Ought a people in reason, to be expected to give up untold property values—revolutionize all their social habits and outrage all their honest convictions of policy and expediency, as they would swallow a plum? The people of the South regard emancipation as a ruinous policy for themselves and the negro alike We hope they are mistaken; but, until experience proves the contrary, we may surely demand of all candid Northern men a fair construction of the fact that it is not adopted with gun firing and bell-ringing. So also in reference to all the complaints and delay in establishing the legal status of the African—ought not the fact that we are working with some promptness in the teeth of all our own convictions and prejudices—we say, ought not this fact to call for forbearance from the North, and really inspire confidence in our honesty and good faith, instead of being made the subject of unmeasured denunciation and abuse? It has required a long rebounding in adversity and suffering to bring the minds of the Southern people up or down to the sacrifice they are now making; and, by placing himself in our position, and appealing to his own heart and pocket, the Northern reviler would be struck dumb in the midst of his reproaches

We heartily concur in every word of the above It is fair, reasonable and just. But being all this, is it not also a powerful argument against making State reconstruction, restoration, or whatever the phrase whereby you characterize the re-admission of the ex-rebels to an equal voice in the government of the country?—New York Post.

THE PRESIDENT AND THE PARDON SEEKERS.—The Washington correspondent of the Philadelphia Inquirer of November 27th tells these stories of the seekers of pardon.

On Saturday not over thirty were present at the White House, among whom was William Porcher Miles, of South Carolina. Approaching the President, he said: "I come to procure pardon, sir" "Under what claim do you come?" asked the President. "I left a seat in Congress to join my State, and have only acted as thousands of others have." "If I had pardoned two of my colleagues, McQueen and Boyce, my name is W Porcher Miles, and I only ask the same favor." The President promptly replied, "Your case must take its chance with others, and in the regular way; I cannot take it up now." This was an evident setback, but Miles rallied and said "Well, sir, I would like to have a permit to go to work in some civil pursuit, either mercantile or professional. I have lost everything, and must do something." "That is not necessary," answered the President; "there are no such papers wanted." "But to be put on, More candid." "Is what I ask," which I can expedite my pardon." "Now, shall, we you see the Attorney General and learn if there are reasons why it cannot be granted?" and the disappointed Miles moved hurriedly out.

As he left a fresh batch of another most noble family approached the President, and sought pardon and the restitution of his property The same answer greeted him, that he must wait his turn "Well," said he, "when I get it, will Congress interfere with me?" The President replied, "As an account against Congress," quoth the puzzled applicant, whose "no" of "yes" that he got nothing against him as the rank of a Brigadier General. "That, sir, is not my look-out. I think I can get by the action of Congress," said the President, and the partially unconstructed gentleman became a member of the military Old Abe is very complete even if he gets his law. The cost of the pardon hinders had no little effect.

ARREST OF MR. LINCOLN'S ASSASSINS.—A Washington dispatch of Dec. 22, says:

The last of President Lincoln were removed from Fort Monroe to Fort Jefferson, at Oak Ridge Quarters, Springfield, in the new vault erected over the site proposed for the monument. The [illegible] Lincoln and the Directors of the National Monument Association were present at the removal.

FINANCIAL AND COMMERCIAL.

WEEKLY REVIEW

PORTLAND, January 5th, 1866

During the week now about to close, there has nothing of particular interest transpired to make mention of except it be the arrival of the bark A. A. Eldridge from Honolulu with a cargo paying $10 000 duties, the arrival of the steamer Active from Victoria with a small cargo of foreign merchandise and the arrival from San Francisco of the steamer Sierra Nevada, with a large and varied assortment of merchandise, valued at about $175,000

The latter vessel, while running up the Columbia in a fog, on the evening of the 2d, was grounded on rocks at a point above St Helens and in spite of all efforts to get her off, is still there fast, and although not literally high and dry," is so near to it that it is possible she may be of little service to her owners in the future It is quite time that a better class of vessels were put in the Oregon trade and there are people well enough informed about the condition of things now in use, to believe that it is an interposition of providence in wrecking them where they can do the least damage, and run the least chances of loss of life

That the steamer Brother Jonathan received that fatal stroke at the time of her collision with the bark Jane A Falkenburg we shall always believe, and had she have sunken then and there many valuable lives would have been spared That steamer as might be well imagined from the condition of the bark, which lay there for months undergoing repairs, was not fit for sea when she put out from Astoria the day after the occurrence, and when she arrived at San Francisco and there took on a heavy cargo to return with, she went to pieces in consequence on the voyage

We regret the circumstance of the grounding of the Sierra Nevada as much perhaps as any one, and would like as well to see her safely off, but when we remember that there was an expression—a year ago—that it was Capt Connor saved the vessel, and not the vessel that saved him, in a severe storm off the north coast and hear from parties well qualified to judge, her present condition, we acknowledge a preference of seeing her ashore to her remaining afloat, that the hull may rot where it is, and not our friends Other circumstances may be considered to give this view preference The company owning the Sierra Nevada are abundantly able to provide us with better ships—and we fear will not do so until driven to it by such occurrences

The bark A. A. Eldridge will receive cargo and take her departure on Monday next It is thought for Honolulu Her cargo is one of the best that we have yet received from the Islands, and is suggestive of the establishment of at least one sugar refinery in this State We last week published an estimate of the growth of the business of the Islands From their position they hold much the same relation to this coast that the West Indies do to the Atlantic States, and when a trade is once permanently established between them and us it will be of great importance, taken in connection with the link of the Northern Pacific Railroad and the trade of Asia.

Notwithstanding the decrease of whale ships from the harbor of Honolulu the past year, the scouts of that port are represented as being very active, and must gradually continue to increase. By developing the resources of the Islands it will no doubt be found that better profits will accrue to the people than they have been in the habit of receiving from the whaling fleet, which is very much on the principle of hundreds now in this region, who are merely intent on making their "pile" with a view of going elsewhere to dispense its value.

A new species of currency has lately made its appearance, as a correspondent says, which will circulate among the people of the Pacific coast, who have not heretofore looked with favor upon "greenbacks" This new notes will be classed as "gold backs" They will always be redeemable in coin, and will afford those facilities in handling, counting, safe-keeping and transportation of which a suitable currency is susceptible Their peculiar character, resting on the expressed faith of the Government, the provisions that they will be received for customs or taxes in gold at the 5th Treasuries, will cause them to circulate throughout the whole continent

We are unable to learn of anything new in the way of financial transactions. There is the same stringency in money matters that has characterized the market for weeks, and money is in demand, but no changes in rates are added to. Legal tender notes find dull sale at ruling figures of the past week

Wholesale and Jobbing Prices.

PORTLAND January 5th, 1866

The Columbia river still remains closed, and the markets generally are unchanged, with very little doing. Oats are more firmly held, and we hear of lots jobbing at 50 cents

In breadstuffs as quoted no change or alteration is recommended, but other brands, Hunnewell's and Reynolds, Pratt & Co., are selling at $1 22½@$1 25 per gallon, and it is a good quality of oil.

The markets of California are quite unsettled, being affected by advices from the East The volume of the circulating medium which operates to enhance prices, create dissatisfaction among the laboring classes, etc., was recently contracted, and there was a change in the various markets of New York soon apparent. For a time trade was steady, but our last advices contain reports of recent advances, and the markets are unsteady, with a prospect of being firm, or at least unsettled for the spring trade

Domestic Produce Market.

PORTLAND, January 5th, 1866.

It is seldom the case that we are called to note special dullness in the domestic produce market, because there is generally a demand sufficient for working off supplies, yet for the present this is not the case. The only article really inquired for is oats, and prices are firm, with a tendency to advance Otherwise there is not a new feature to remark about it

Woolen and Cotton Goods.

PORTLAND January 5th 1866

The woolen and cotton manufacturing interest on the Pacific coast is a source of congratulation to all friends of home industry and a most hopeful indication of the tendency of the times The woolen mills of this State are a credit to the country, and are now sending considerable amounts of goods of fine quality to other parts of the coast Eastern and European made blankets fine woolen plaids for overskirts, flannels, towels, tweeds and heavy cassimeres, are being driven from the market rapidly with the force and advantages of our domestic factories Our Oregon City mill, now the most extensive one on the coast and the Willamette mill at Salem, larger than any in California, will be able to more than double the exports of our State the present year in such articles as they are manufacturing, and indeed they will have to do this to fully keep up with the demands for their goods.

We learn by the Bulletin of late date, that the first cotton mill on the coast has begun operations at Oakland

The operatives have not yet fairly settled down to their work but taking all things into consideration the goods (shirtings) are credited to manufacturer but at present only 11 looms are in use which is expected to double in a few days when it is expected the daily production will reach from 1,200 to 1,500 yards By an act of the Legislature a premium of 5% on the cost of the first production of certain amounts of the various cotton goods and the Oakland Mills is in a fair way to obtain it At present the factory is running 1 M xed cotton, which is short stapled and not altogether adapted for some kinds of goods; but next year, it is hoped to obtain a supply of raw material of native cultivation growth, sufficient to obviate the necessity of importing supplies from Mexico or elsewhere Several hundred acres of cotton are now under cultivation in the Southern portion of the State, and the successful production is already satisfactorily demonstrated Coal is in with the fine climate and soil certainly ought to bring cheap manufacturing establishment not alone for all her wants, but sufficient for the entire Pacific slope Some of the mills now managed in its cultivators are so sanguine as to believe that she will not only do so but the time may arrive when she will rank as among the best cotton growing regions of America Thus we are gradually becoming more and more independent of the older States of the Union and of Europe and many years will not elapse before we shall be quite self sustaining in most particulars, as the inter communication

In consequence of the unsettled condition of the markets East there is little change of importance to note in prices We quote
